The screenshot shows the ScienceDirect website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the ScienceDirect logo, 'Journals & Books', a search bar, and 'Register' and 'Sign in' buttons. Below this is a blue banner with the text 'Access through another Institution' and a message: 'Amazon Regional University IKIAM does not subscribe to this content on ScienceDirect.' The main content area is divided into three columns. The left column contains a table of contents with links to 'Outline', 'Highlights', 'Abstract', 'JEL Classification', 'Keywords', and a numbered list of sections: '1. Introduction', '2. Materials and methods', '3. Results', '4. Discussion: drivers of knowledge gaps', '5. Conclusions and policy recommendations', 'Conflict/declaration of interest statement', 'CRediT authorship contribution statement', 'Acknowledgments', 'Appendix A. Supplementary data', 'Research Data', and 'References'. The middle column features the article title 'Knowledge gaps in Latin America and the Caribbean and economic development' in a large font, followed by the authors' names: 'Pablo Jarrín-V. ^a, Fander Falconi ^b, Pedro Cango ^{a*}, Jesus Ramos-Martin ^{a,c}'. Below the authors are options to 'Add to Mendeley', 'Share', and 'Cite', along with the DOI link 'https://doi.org/10.1016/j.worlddev.2021.105602'. A 'Highlights' box contains two bullet points: 'Growth curves are analyzed in size (difference in mean growth), tempo (the region's year at peak growth velocity), and intensity (growth rate).', and 'Latin America and the Caribbean maintains a historical gap in income per'. The right column is titled 'Recommended articles' and lists three related articles: 'Experts and resource users split over solutions to peatland fires', 'Electrification and cooking fuel choice in rural India', and 'The welfare costs of uncertainty: Cross-country evidence'. At the bottom of the page, there is a Windows taskbar with the search bar, task icons, and system tray showing the time as 09:27 a.m. on 04/04/2023 and the temperature as 24°C.
